Black Rock To Vote On Dam Bonds--And Say Talk About Nuggets!!

"Hey! Hey! Look what you're throwing away," said one miner to another, working along the sluice boxes on the Omega gravel mine. With that he picked up a nugget weighing 2 ounces which his companion had just thrown out of the sluice box along with a fork full of coarse gravel.

An examination of the sluice boxes followed and a nice handful of nuggets were recovered, one weighing three ounces, which is a beauty, and another weighing one and a half ounces, along with smaller gobs of gold that ranged from $5 in value upward. Arthur Hoge was showing to friends yesterday some of these high powered nuggets.

The Omega property, owned by the Hoge interests, is of the largest gravel property in the Black Rock Placer Mining district. This district is now preparing to issue $200,000 in bonds for the purpose of constructing a debris dam on the South Yuba river.

The date for the bond election is set for July 5 and voting will take place in the house of Claude Clark. Election officials consist of W. H. Taylor, inspector, and Arthur W. Hoge and Frank Hoge, judges.

The Black Rock is the first mining district in California to avail itself of the new law legalizing the formation of such districts along the line of lighting, highway and other improvement districts, which for some years have been successfully organized and operated in California.

Fourteen men are now employed in the Omega sawmill which is preparing timbers for mine operations and will be ready to provide the necessary lumber for the construction of the debris dam in the South Yuba, if and when authorized.

CONVERSATION HALTS WHEN LIGHTNING HITS

Chester Scheemer, of the Plaza Grocery, was standing at the corner of the building, and talking to two other men, during the last thunder storm. A bolt of lightning hit the tall power pole in front of them and glanced off the wires with a blinding flash. His two acquaintances quit in the middle of a sentence, ran for their cars and beat it up Sacramento street. They were only a little slower than the lightning itself. Apparently they did not believe the old adage that "lightning never strikes twice in the same place."

SCOUTS HUSTLE CAMP PAHATSI INTO READINESS

This week preparations for Scouts and Cubs summer camp at Kilborn Lake near Soda Springs, assumes greater activity. Nine worked on the camp road and miscellaneous projects last week end. Wednesday, W. H. Holmes, of Roseville, H. Campbell, of Penryn and R. Ebbert, of Auburn, started work on kitchen fixtures in the lodge, road work and oil house. June 17th is the Eagle Scout picnic with friends and parents at Camp Pahatsi. The Eagles have made this a work day for camp and the project they have undertaken is to clear the ground and start the foundation for the future handicraft and museum lodge. They expect at least 30 workers. Other friends of Scouting and Scout parents also have indicated their intension of putting in a few "licks" for camp the same day.

Estimates by the scoutmasters in attendance at Summer Point to the largest Scout camp of three weeks yet for Tahoe Area Council. Registrations have increased materially this week, with Troop No. 19, of Auburn, having a total of 10 registered and 9 more planning to.

Last Sunday about 40 visitors looked over Kilborn Lake. Twenty of these were Camp Fire Girls of Roseville, who plan to attend the Placer and Nevada county Camp Fire Girls camp at Camp Pahatsi, for two weeks starting after Scout camp July 29.

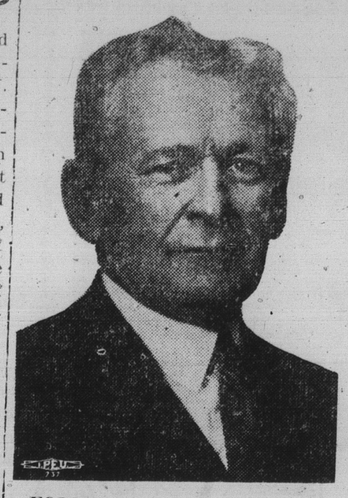
CITY POOL ATOP GOLD LEDGE, HAS GOLD IN WALLS

Nevada City is really founded upon gold. Out at the new municipal Swimming pool, Contractor Y. C. Soda, a few days ago while excavating for the big plunge, ripped into a gold ledge. Councilman Ben Hall made some panning tests that show, in his own language, a "good prospect." Another mining expert, who owns property in the vicinity of the municipal park, assayed the honey-comb quartz, a specimen of which is in the window of the Nevada City Nugget, and this assay revealed a "fine prospect." Neither of them, it seems, obtained a quantitative assay of the rock.

Not only is the swimming pool located right on top of a gold ledge, but the very walls are being filled with gold bearing quartz. For the rock mixture that goes into the cement is from the North Star dump and much of it carries gold values. Thus it is that Nevada City's swimming pool will be unique among the thousands of pools in California, for its literally floored and walled with gold bearing rock, and is built over a gold vein.

Just by way of encouragement to the boys and girls, the young and old, who look forward to a plunge in the pool on the Fourth, the Nugget was again assured today that the pool would be completed by that date.

Former Gov. Young To Visit Nevada City



FORMER GOV. C. C. YOUNG
Republican Candidate for Governor, who will visit Nevada City and Grass Valley next Wednesday afternoon.

Former Governor C. C. Young will visit Nevada City next Wednesday afternoon between 3:40 and 4:15. He desires to meet as many Nevada City voters as possible in the brief time allotted him by his field representative, Robert G. Alderman, who was in Nevada City yesterday making arrangements.

Young is now campaigning in Southern California, where all his former admirers and supporters are rallying to his banner.

Early next week he returns from the south, tours Tuolumne, Amador and Calaveras counties. He will leave Stockton early Wednesday morning, calling at various towns along the route, and at noon will lunch at Auburn. He He will visit Colfax in the afternoon, be Nevada City's guest during the hours mentioned above, and drive to Grass Valley for dinner where he will meet the Republican leadership of Nevada County.

Next Thursday he will call at Downieville, Sierra City, Satlee, Sierraville, Truckee, Tahoe City and return to Sacramento.

What Would The Fourth Be Without Columbia?

This is a story for girls, pretty girls, plain girls, ambitious girls, thin girls and stout girls, girls blonde as Elaine, girls brunette as Carmen, girls tall and girls short, solemn girls or giggling girls.

Now do listen girls, for it is really Fred Conner, chairman of Nevada City's Fourth of July Parade Committee, who is addressing you through the medium of this Nugget.

No parade since the days of "Forty Nine," has been a real parade unless Columbia has sat enthroned and moved with regal splendor down Broad street or up Commercial, as the case might be.

Now (Fred Coner is speaking again) with the full commendation of the Fourth of July Committee of which Frank Finnegan is chairman, a plan has been evolved for choosing Columbia this year among Nevada City's host of attractive girls. In years agone elections were held as a money raising stunt. Our patriotic sentiments were all smeared over with commercialism. The girl with the most votes got the office of Columbia. Other methods, mostly tainted with the same commercialism, were used, and all but one of the dear youg things were disappointed.

But this is the year of sweetness and light and the New Deal. Any girl between the ages of 16 and 26, and, mark the parallel here, between the dates June 16 and June 26, may enter her candidacy for the office of Columbia on July Fourth either at the Grass Valley Union office or the Nevada City Nugget office.

And that will be all she has to do, until one day during the last of June all the candidates registered will be called together and under the expert eye of three judges, will hold a grand coin matching contest.

They will sit around a table and match coins, heads or tales, until all but one is eliminated, and that girl will be Columbia on July Fourth. She will have provided for her a beautiful gown, a beautiful crown, a beautiful throne and a beautiful vehecle or float, and as many beautiful princesses in waiting as there are among the candidates who lost out in the coin matching.

For when all is said and done, every girl will agree with Fred Conner, that matching coins is the grand old Forty Niner and American way of settling all matters concerning which there may be doubts of any kind.

Now, all that the girls need to remember in this contest, is their own ages and these are very important dates, June 16 to June 26, by which all candidates must register.

CARBON AND IGNITION

Lubricating oil passing work piston rings is ignited with the fuel and leaves a certain amount of carbon which clings to the piston head and compression chamber, according to the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. Under high compression red hot particles of carbon often ignite the fuel prematurely. Such pre-ignition opposes the driving forces of the engine and causes loss of power and undue wear on pistons and bearings.

PLACER COUNTY JOINS BATTLE TO DEFEND TAHOE

PLACERVILLE, June 14.—The Board of Supervisors, of El Dorado county, have joined property owners at Lake Tahoe in their fight to prevent lowering of the lake water level to such an extent that it will damage the natural shoreline and mar the scenic beauty of the lake.

This annual controversy, which has been waged for almost a quarter of a century, was renewed this year when Lake Tahoe property owners discovered that there is a contract, drawn evidently without the knowledge of lake shore property owners, between Nevada interests and the government, which gives to the Nevada interests complete control and regulations of the high and low levels of the lake.

Judge Louis D. Bartlett, of Berkeley, a south lake shore property owner, discoverd that such a propoosed contract exists while he was in Washington recently and a protest meeting of Lake Tahoe property owners was called by Judge Bartlett and convened May 28th, at Youngs Resort.

Organization of a permanent association to protect the lake was determined upon and District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, of Placer county, is chairman of a committee which is taking steps at this time to protect the lake, and which is working out the necessary details for the establishment of a permanent organization at a meeting at Bijou this Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GAIN IN TIMBER SALES FORECAST

The pine and redwood lumber cut in California for 1933 showed a slight upturn according to a preliminary statement prepared by the U. S. Forest Service for the Bureau of the Census. The cut for the pine region of the state for large mills was 590,361,000 board feet and for the redwood region 200,043,000 feet. Small mills brought the total to 790,838,000 feet as compared with 680,520,000 feet in 1932. The average annual lumber cut for California during the peak years of production from 1925 to 1929 inclusive was 2,063,529,000 board feet.

This year there will be a 100 per cent increase over 1933 in timber sales business on national forest land in California, according to estimates made by U. S. Regional Forester S. B. Show, which is considered to be an indication of general conditions in the lumber industry.

The return of 25 per cent of the receipts from the sale of Forest Service timber in 1930 netted California counties in which national forests are located a revenue of $297,000 for road and school purposes. This revenue dropped to $30,000 in the fiscal year 1933 but will show an increase this year, according to the Forest Service.

TRAFFIC DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

That recent months have brought an alarming increase in highway fatalities and injuries in the United States is definitely indicated by reports reaching the California State Automobile Association from affiliated A. A. A. clubs and other agencies in all parts of the country.

"One of the most disturbing features of the situation is the fact that current accidents appear to result in a higher number of fatalities and serious injuries," says a report based on this nationwide survey.

The record for the first four months of this year continued to show a constantly ascending curve of accidents. Normally these are the months during which fatalities and injuries are at their lowest.

Reportable motor vehicle accidents received and tabulated by the California Highway Patrol during the first three months of 1934 show an increase of 467 accidents (6.34 per cent); persons killed in traffic accidents increased 126 (26.3 per cent); and the number injured increased 782 (7.98 per cent). The California accidents for the three months totalled 7,838, the persons killed totalled 607 and the injured 10,582.

OIL IN BRAKES

Mineral oil, such as engine oil, kerosene, or any fluid with a mineral base should never be used in a hydraulic brake system advises the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. The fluid recommended by the manufacturer or the automobile should be used in every instance.

E. Clampus Vitus

The first time I beheld that sign,
I cried, "what does this mean?
Here is the very strangest thing
That I have ever seen.
Now can it be an epigram
By Caesar coined of yore,
Or did Poe's raven drag it in
From night's Plutonian shore?"

I wondered if it were a toast,
Or e'en perchance a rule,
A warning of impending doom,
A precept of a school;
I wondered if it were a dance—
Saint Vitus was, you know;
I asked, but no one whom I quizzed
Had wisdom to bestow.

And then I found a document
That told me all about it;
So very lucid was the screed,
In no wise could I doubt it;
And then full many a lonely camp
Retold the mystic story;
E. Clampus Vitus was, you see,
A part of olden glory.

And now, oh lonely camp and mine,
The sons of pioneers
Are on the dim old trails again
To bridge the silent years;
And though to ancient mystic rites
I fear they'll not invite us,
In them our heroes live again—
All Hail, E. Clampus Vitus.

A. MERRIAM CONNER.

Bilious Attacks

Twenty years from now it will be just as disgraceful to be bilious as it is now to be drunk. And it should be; a bilious attack in reality, is a food drunk. Biliousness is an intoxication or poisoning of the system due to overindulgence in food just as overindulgence in drink is bad, both morally and physically, possibly not to the same degree as overindulgence in drink.

A bilious attack is a process of elimination. It is a house cleaning, if you please, it is an occasion upon which the body get rids of poisons that have accumulated to the degree that they threaten health. The term bilious attack is applied by different persons to include a rather wide variety of more or less similar disturbances of various degrees of severity. But, to different persons these are similar characteristics and the symptoms vary largely only in the severity.

Those who are subject to bilious attacks of the severe variety usually notice that a day or two before the attack, there is some change in the bowels, usually more or less constipation, and gas in excess of the usual amount. Usually the day preceding the attack, the appetite is excessive, the person craves considerable food and foods that are not good for him. About this time he feels better than usual, has apparently more strength and vigor. The actual attack usually begins with a headache, over one eye, though often in the back of the head. As the headache becomes more severe, Nausea follows and the Nausea is often accompained by vomiting, first of the stomach contents, then of bile. The attack usually lasts for a few hours, but in some persons several days are required to clean-up the attack entirely. After a severe attack, the person usually feels weak and depressed for several days.

Between attacks, the victim of biliousness often is eating a little more food than his physical activities will permit him to use up and is usually eating foods that are hard to digest. He often uses coffee and tobacco, has the soda fountain habit. As a result of this sort of eating, the candidate for bilious attack keep up a constant fermentation and putrefaction of unused food in the bowels. The poisons that are formed here probably accumulate in the liver and when the time comes that they actually threaten health, they are destroyed by means of bilious attack.

Of course the real cure for biliousness must be accomplished by Chinese Herb treatments between the attacks. The diet must be changed in such a way as to stop the stream of poisons pouring into the liver from the stomach and intestines. Those who are afflicted with biliousness will find 3 meals a day pli much better than the usual 3 meals. Care should be taken, however, not to eat 3 meals at the 2 sittings. Milk and cream should be eaten sparingly, while sweets should be almost entirely omitted, and coffee avoid altogether. Meats should be eaten sparingly and care should be taken in regard to the combination of foods, as well as to their cooking. Bad cooking and bad mixtures have as much to do with bringing about bilious attacks as anything else.

A. M. HOLMES

Nevada County Coroner—Offices in Nevada City and Grass Valley

Perhaps never before in the history of the county have the people given so much thought to the caliber of the man who will hold public office as well as their proved personal attributes and capabilities that would indicate how well they would hold their respective offices after being selected. This is true of the people of Nevada county, as it is of the nation. A. H. Holmes's constructive administration of his own private affairs and business has gained him a hearty regard and the respect of his colleagues, because his career as a citizen has been helpful and conducted in a sound and business-like manner. He has been indefatigable in his efforts to give the interests of his fellow citizens the best that is in him and his policies have been so manifestly honest and above board that he has won the plaudits of all, regardless of partisanship. It is such men who merit well at election time, for the day has passed when men are selected for office as a personal favor.

Mrs. A. L. Lane and Mrs. B. O. Hamilton have just returned from a visit in Oakland with their mother and grandmother.

Miss Iola Gillespie, who has been quite ill at her home at Town Talk, is convalescing at the home of Mrs. W. C. Perry, on Main street.

LUMBER TALKS

The fourth is fast approaching now,
And all the girls and boys
Will toot their horns and trumpets then,
And make a lot of noise;
Myself will trot the fiddle out
And thump the grand pianner—
I wish I knew the second verse
Of the Star Spangled Banner!
A. M. C.

THE Fourth is less than three weeks away and Nevada City is bustling with activity. Guests are coming and the twin queens of the Sierras are determined to give them a royal welcome.

THERE are many things to be done with Lumber, Hardware, Paint, Wallboard and other Building Materials. You will find everything needed for your pre-vacation building in our various departments and your needs will be attended to in a manner which we hope to make increasingly valuable to the individuals and communities of Nevada County.

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—Congress did a lot of wrestling, in its closing hours, with new legislation designed to encourage the building of more homes by individuals, and in connection with this debate there developed what I believe to be one of the outstanding questions of the times. The housing bill, as it was called, would make borrowing easier for those who want to own their own homes. In other words, it is a program that will put more people into debt if they take advantage of the bill's provisions. And that is the question: After the conditions that have obtained through the last four years, is it or is it not sound economy to encourage individuals to contract new debts?

Fear Too Much New Debt

Debate on the housing bill, therefore, centered attention on one phase of the whole New Deal program that has caused concern in the back of many heads. Up to this time, however, apparently few of the legislators had paused to think of the trend of the course upon which the administration had embarked.

I noted in the committee hearings in the house that a number of the representatives exhibited a fear of too much new debt. Such stolid men as Luce of Massachusetts, Busby of Mississippi, and Hollister of Ohio, and some who are inclined to the inflationary side, like Goldsborough of Maryland, questioned whether the proposal was sound. Mr. Luce, for example, called attention to the old-time theory about debts, and the horror in which debt used to be held. Mr. Luce, of course, reflected the wholesome New England feeling and the attitude of New Englanders on savings. Mr. Busby, a southern Democrat, however, made observations that were of much the same tenor. To them, he added that a recent visit to his home bailiwick had indicated to him the need of watching the government's step in encouraging debt. He suggested further that where the government had extended help in the South, things continued to hum until that aid was eliminated. Thereafter, there was another tailspin insofar as recovery was concerned.

Whatever one's conclusion about going into debt may be, the fact is unchanged that the federal government has put out approximately $7,000,000,000 in the last year in various types of loans. The individuals or the corporations to which that money was loaned are in debt to Uncle Sam, therefore, in a corresponding amount. President Roosevelt and his associates and advisers defend their course with the argument that by making the loans they have enabled all of those folks to weather the storm. He argues that the economic casualty list would have been much higher had the loans not been made. He holds that those who borrowed from the federal government were actually unable to get money elsewhere and that the government was merely looking after its own folks. To those who criticize the use of taxpayers' money in this manner, Mr. Roosevelt has said repeatedly that these loans will be repaid and that the government will suffer no loss in the end.

But, after all, there are the debts, debts on top of debts. They must either be repaid or repudiated. If they are paid, the borrowers must pay them out of future earnings. That condition, according to the latest line of argument that developed under the housing bill debate, means the borrowers can create little or no reserve for the future.

Debts on Top of Debts

It is being said that the recovery program and the New Deal generally contemplates planning for the future in such a manner as to ward off a recurrence of the calamity of depression. But I have asked in a good many places; what if the theories of economic planning fail to work at all, or work only in part? The answers I obtained depended somewhat on the slant of the person questioned. If they are following the professors blindly, they said to me that the plans could not fail because they were sound by every theory under which they are drawn. If the person to whom the inquiry was directed examined the problem on a practical basis and studied it with the background of history in mind, I believe without exception the answer was: "Well, it will be just too bad."

My own feeling coincides with the latter view. If the New Deal program for economic planning, for adjusting production to consumption, for controlling crop planting and distribution, and the other items that enter into the plan fail to operate according to the theories upon which they are based, there can be no doubt of the result. It will be just too bad. There will be millions of persons more debt ridden than now, and there will be no way out. The government will be holding the bag.

On this question of debt, there is that troublesome international phase. The United States loaned something like eleven billion dollars to foreign governments to aid in prosecution of the World war against Germany. For a long time after the money was loaned, the United States got nothing at all. In the meanwhile, there was a terrific bombardment of propaganda from the borrowing nations and from some of the misguided folks in our own country calling for absolute cancellation. But cancellation could not win. It was impossible. So there followed a lot of negotiations in which commissions from foreign governments came here and conferred at length with our debt funding commission.

Settlements were eventually worked out. The debts were funded. That is, the debtor nations were given a long time in which to pay. They were given enormous concessions by our debt commission in order to get some agreement for repayment of the various loans. I know whereof I speak regarding those concessions because it happens that I am the only newspaper correspondent in Washington who reported everyone of the debt conferences, and I say unequivocally that those funding settlements represented on the average a reduction of more than one-third in the total amount which the debtors contracted originally to pay.

Now, again we are in the midst of new efforts to get something done in the way of repayments. The foreign nations are not going to pay if it can be avoided. They put up the very natural argument that obtains with everyone who is in debt and who has been hit on the chin by depression conditions. They cannot raise the money, so they say. To avoid defaults, some of the foreign nations made what they called token payments a year ago at this time. Some of them have offered token payments again. But token payments amount to about the same thing as when your friend eats the apple and hands you the core. It was a nice apple to begin with, and the funding settlements were nice settlements when they were signed.

Dodges Repayment

Frankly, I suspect that the United States is never going to get more than about 10 per cent of the total now due. There will be plenty of arguments, propositions and counter propositions, negotiations and hauling and filling, and after awhile some of the foreign governments will have succeeded in creating enough public sentiment among their home people to cause a national action of the same character as that taken by France a year ago.

The condition as regards the foreign debts owing the United States, I am afraid, will be paralleled right here at home by individual and corporation and bank debts owing the federal government. Many borrowers will run into hard luck, as they always have done, and they will appeal to the politicians to save them.

When those debts become a political issue, it will be an issue too strong for politicians to withstand. They will arise on the floors of congress and weep about the plight of "those poor people."

The special senate committee is getting under way with its inquiry into the various industries that manufacture materials for war, and it appears now that it is headed into an investigation that will disclose plenty of things that will cause a stink to arise when the investigators have laid their findings before the committee headed by Senator Bye of North Dakota. I spent a couple of hours the other day with one of the wheelhorses commanding the investigating force and it was certainly his opinion that there are things awaiting revelation that will surprise the populace. He is confident, as he said, that the country will sit up and take notice of what the committee is preparing to bring to light.

May Stir Up a Stink

The evening I was in the chief investigator's office eight men were receiving their credentials and money with which to start out on the trail. They were headed for what amounts to a raid on the files and books of some factory which the investigators believed had been engaged in the manufacture of war materials and which they thought also had been engaged in propagating information that would cause a couple of foreign nations to look with suspicion upon each other. Suspicion between two nations is obviously a prelude to more serious differences, and eventually war is the result. The committee has started out to expose such conditions, if they exist, and the investigators are convinced that things of that sort are being practiced by some of the makers of munitions.

I have no way of knowing where the investigators are going in their continuing effort, but from all indications they have orders to dig deep into files and records to see what they can find. They will come back to Washington, eventually, with great bales of letters and records that they think shed light on the various suspected activities, and, of course, when the committee begins taking testimony those things will be brought out. There is just no way out of it; a good many corporations whether they have engaged in war-provoking activities or not are going to be smeared.

Summer of Wide Brims Is Message

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IT'S breathtaking the way millinery has burst into a blaze of glory before our enchanted eyes this season. Everything from flowers to feathers, fruit trimmings, ribbons and brims of startling dimension seems to be conspiring to bring "real millinery" back into the picture once more.

Now that brims have definitely "arrived" you may wear them as huge as you care to wear them. Fashion places no limit to their dimensions. Not for season upon season have brims been so wide, so versatile, so everywhere present, so chic and so picturesque.

In the circle leghorn and roses tell a summery tale of hats-beautiful such as will be worn with frocks of exotic print, with gowns of lace, or of net, pastel chiffons or organdies.

In the other large circle is a huge black panama with the new fruit trimming which is considered quite the last word this season. You must have at least one hat trimmed with a wee apple or so, or a trio of plums and green leaves, or a cluster of cherries or berries of some sort—anything just so it is tempting looking artificial fruit. By the way, the fruit motif in dress prints is also very good this season.

The hat up in the left corner of the group has one of those wee semi-wreathes about the front of its crown which is decorative yet conservative enough to permit this wide-brimmed chapeau to be worn with simple daytime costumes.

Just below, centered to the left, is a hat of rough cire straw, for cire and cellulose black straws, you must know, are the rage. So, also, are all-black fabrics of cired luster. A perky multi-colored quill imparts a dash and a go to this simple tailored hat which is just what is needed in a headpiece which is to top one's cloth or linen suit.

Brims that turn up in the back are excellent style, and are a pleasing change from the conventional cartwheel of the merry widow type. The model shown in the lower left corner is indicative of this trend. Its simple ribbon trim tunes it to wear with the daytime tailleur.

Transparent brims are important millinery news. Huge capelines sheer as can be add an exquisite touch to the summer picture. Illustrated at the top, to the right, is a charming transparent brim. The bouquet of flowers together with a simple ribbon band trim this chapeau effectively.

Comes next, below to the right, a coolie beach hat. It has a cunning buckle fastening under the chin. Not only beach hats reflect the Chinese influence, for many of the smartest dress models carry pointed crowns which are so shallow they almost glide right into their large drooping-all-around brims in true coolie fashion.

Last in the picture is an immense cartwheel which is strictly tailored. Of course the new exceedingly shallow crowns, posed at so perilous an angle as most of them are, would never in the world stay on themselves and so here is a final message—old-style, now new style, elastic or hatpins!

SHEER RAYON DOT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Rayon has won its way to the top. Upon it leading designers have set their seal of approval. Dotted sheers in self color is the last word in summer materials. Raised rayon dots on a mousseline de rayon background describes the handsome all-black fabric which fashions the gown illustrated. This model is making a very prideful showing in the collection of man-made materials which the Fashion Group of America have been exhibiting in New York. They are smart for dinner and evening gowns but the big news concerning them is that the swankiest of daytime jacket suits and enesembles are being made of them, a tailleur of net being the newest of the new.

PASTEL WOOL NOW POPULAR FAVORITE

Every season sees some new fashion development which springs up mushroom fashion, overnight. This year it is short, loose or belted swagger coats of white or pastel wool over town frocks of plain or printed crepe.

These coats are sold separately. They are quite inexpensive. And they give a decidedly fresh and summery air to a dark ensemble. They may take the place of the black or navy redingote with which you started out the spring season.

String color is very smart with black or navy. Other popular shades are a deep dusty yellow, linen blue, and a soft leaf green. In many instances the color of the coat is accented in the print of the frock, or in some detail of belt, scarf or other trimming.

Evening Tailleurs Seen in Various Novel Fabrics

New evening tailleurs, combining a tailored jacket and instep-length skirt ready for restaurant dining, are fashioned of novel fabrics along striking lines. One suit of silver lame with a trim tailored jacket is finished with a black satin blouse and a facing of the same sable fabric inside the skirt hem. Black faille or taffeta suits cut on the same lines appear with either long-sleeved or sleeveless blouses of white organdie or flame red crepe.

Refreshing Colors Now Feature Newest Fashions

Colors this season are amazingly refreshing. There's a "Flagship" blue with all of the light in it of a sky from a sailing vessel. Russet is swapped from fall shades for spring and competes with the new clay some people object to.

Pale blue with a lavender tinge is lovely in knitted wear and for evening, with deeper blue trim. And brown comes in more different tinges than ever before.

Back Fullness

Black fullness in evening dresses continues to be their most noteworthy feature. It is achieved by ruffles, cascades of flounces, bustles and other devices.

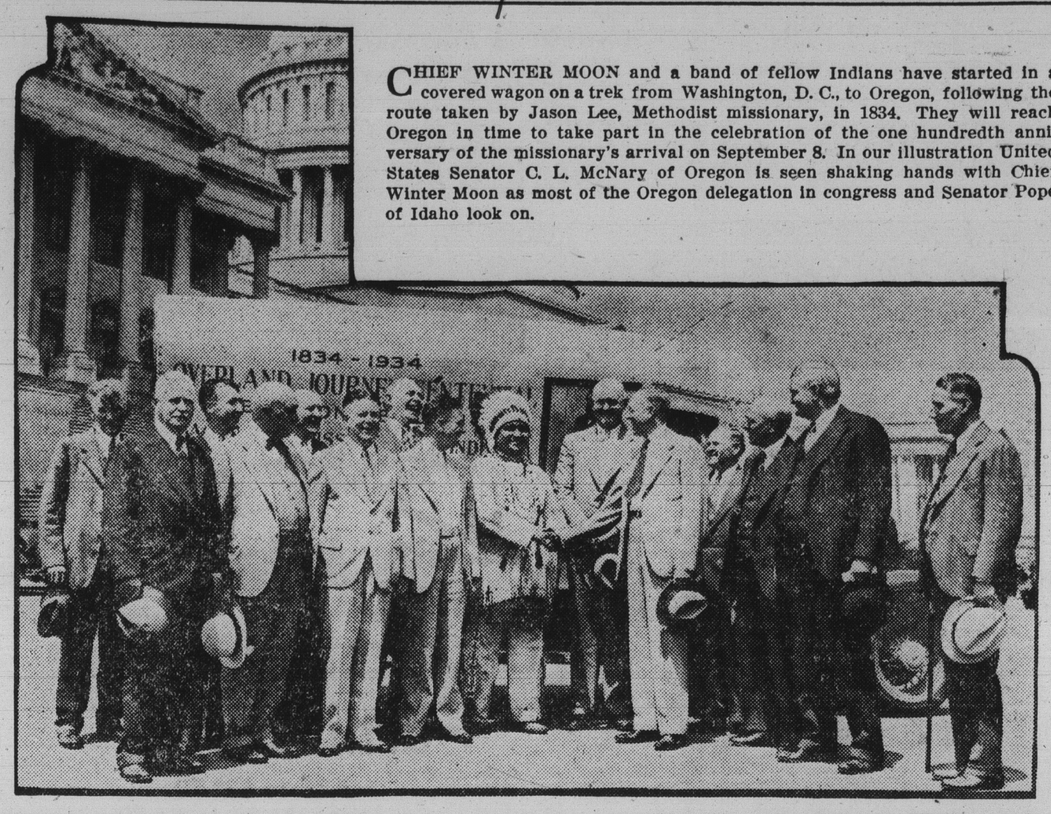
Indians Start Wagon Trek Across the Continent



CHIEF WINTER MOON and a band of fellow Indians have started in a covered wagon on a trek from Washington, D. C., to Oregon, following the route taken by Jason Lee, Methodist missionary, in 1834. They will reach Oregon in time to take part in the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the missionary's arrival on September 8. In our illustration United States Senator C. L. McNary of Oregon is seen shaking hands with Chief Winter Moon as most of the Oregon delegation in congress and Senator Pope of Idaho look on.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

MORE TROUBLE FROM SALLY SLY

A FEW mornings after his talk with Jenny Wren about Redeye the Vireo, Peter once more visited the Old Orchard. No sooner did he come in sight than Jenny Wren's tongue began to fly. "What did I tell you, Peter Rabbit? What did I tell you? I knew it was so, and it is!" cried Jenny.

"What is so?" asked Peter rather testily, for he hadn't the least idea what Jenny Wren was talking about.

"Sally Sly did lay an egg in Redeye's nest, and now it has hatched, and I don't know whatever is to become of Redeye's own children. It's perfectly

"What Did I Tell You, Peter Rabbit? What Did I Tell You?"

scandalous," cried Jenny, and hopped about and jerked her tail and worked herself into a small brown fury.

"The Redeyes are working themselves to feathers and bone feeding that ugly young cowbird, while their own babies aren't getting half enough to eat," she continued. "One of them has died already. He was kicked out of the nest by that young brute."

"How dreadful!" cried Peter. "If he does things like that I should think the Redeyes would throw him out of the nest."

"They're too soft-hearted," said Jenny. "I can tell you I wouldn't be so soft-hearted. No, siree, I wouldn't! But they say it isn't his fault that he's there, that he's nothing but a helpless baby, so they just must take care of him."

"Then why don't they feed their own babies first and give him what's left?" asked Peter.

"Because he's twice as big as any of their own babies and so strong and greedy that he simply snatches the food out of the very mouths of the others. Because he gets most of the food he is growing twice as fast as they are. I wouldn't be surprised if he kicks all the rest of them out before he gets through. Mr. and Mrs. Redeye are dreadfully distressed about it, but they will feed him, because they say it isn't his fault. It's a dreadful affair, and the talk of the whole orchard. I suppose his mother is gadding about somewhere, having a good time and not caring a flip of her tail feathers what becomes of him. I believe in being good hearted. I certainly do. But there is such a thing as overdoing the matter. Thank goodness I'm not so weak minded that I can be imposed on in such a way as that."

"That may be so," replied Peter, "but just the same I can't help feeling a lot of respect for Mr. and Mrs. Redeye because of their kind heartedness."

PALATABLE PUDDINGS

DURING the warm months more delicate puddings of fruit and eggs in the form of souffles are much enjoyed.

Lemon Souffle.

Beat the yolks of four eggs until thick and lemon colored, add one cup of sugar very slowly and continue beating, then add the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Cut and fold in the whites of four eggs beaten stiff and turn into a buttered baking dish; set in a pan of hot water. Bake 35 minutes. Serve without sauce.

Spanish Souffle.

Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one-half cup of stale bread crumbs, cook until slightly browned, stirring often; add one cup of milk, two tablespoons of sugar, cook 20 minutes in a double boiler; remove from the fire, add the unbeaten yolks of three eggs and cut and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Add flavor and bake as any souffle.

Steamed Blueberry Pudding.

Mix and sift together two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoons of baking powder, and one-half teaspoon of salt. Add one cup each of milk and blueberries rolled in flour, turn into a buttered mold and steam one and one-half hours. Serve with a creamy sauce or sugar and cream.

Graham Pudding.

Melt one-fourth of a cup of butter, add one-half cup of molasses, one-half cup of milk and a well-beaten egg. Mix together one and one-half cups of graham flour, one-half teaspoon of soda, one teaspoon of salt, and one cupful of seeded raisins cut fine. Turn into a buttered mold, cover and steam two and one-half hours. Serve with any fruit sauce. Dates or figs may be used in place of the raisins for variety.

A sauce to serve on angel food makes a most tasty pudding prepared thus: Cream one-third of a cup of butter, add one cup of powdered sugar very slowly, one egg white beaten stiff and two-thirds of a cup of mashed strawberries. Beat until well blended then add with whipped cream for a garnish.

QUESTION BOX
By ED WYNN . . . The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
What is your opinion of married life, don't you think it is the happiest life?

Sincerely,
MAY DENN.

Answer—It all depends how the two people enjoy themselves.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Do you think it is safe for a man to shave his face with a dull razor blade?

Yours truly,
BOB BURR.

Answer—Sure I do. As long as the handle of the razor doesn't break, the beard is bound to come off.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Yesterday, a tramp came to my back door and asked for something to eat. I gave him a meal on his promise to cut my lawn. He ate the meal but he ran away and never kept his promise to cut the lawn. What do you think of that?

Yours truly,
I. FEAL ORFUL.

Answer—It just goes to show that you must never take the word of a total stranger.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
My sweetheart and I are going on a hike next Sunday. We intend walking cross country. My girl weighs 197½ lbs. What I want to know is this: When we come to a fence, is it my place to "help" her over the fence?

Truly yours,
P. DESTRIAN.

Answer—My dear boy, as your girl weighs nearly 200 pounds, it is your place to "help" the fence.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
A friend of mine says he knows a pair of twin girls that, whatever you tell them, must be told to them together. Why is that?

Yours truly,
RAY D. OHE.

Answer—That is because the twins look so much alike, they can't be told apart.

A CORNER IN MY HEART

By ANNE CAMPBELL

YOU have a little corner in my heart,
A sunny space belonging just to you,
With windows open so the gentle art
Of brown wrens singing may come drifting through.
There is a garden, and the fragrance drifts
Into the little corner where you are.
And in the evening palest moonlight sifts
In my glad heart, and there's an evening star.

Now you are gone, the sun no longer shines.
The garden flowers are dead, the moon no more
Looks down in splendor through the trumpet vines.
The star is absent from my heart's wrenched door.
A little corner of my heart is dull
And dusty that you made so beautiful!

Westinghouse

Dual-automatic Refrigerator

● Most important of all the reasons why you should buy a Westinghouse Refrigerator is the greater satisfaction and loyalty to be found among Westinghouse owners. You will find this true among your friends—for a recent survey of 15,000 typical American homes reveals the fact that (1) More Westinghouse owners say they would buy the same make again! (2) Fewer Westinghouse owners could think of any feature that was not 100% satisfactory!

Let us demonstrate the lifetime quality, convenience and year-round economy of the Westinghouse Refrigerator. Since it pays for itself—why not have the best?
